ALL PROPOSITIONS CARRY IN COUNTY

SOLDIER BONUS AMENDMENT HAS NARROWEST MARGIN

VOTE WAS VERY LIGHT

Several Precincts Would Deny Women Right to Hold Office—Road Measure Popular

Nodaway county voters favored the calling of a constitutional convention and voted "yes" on all three of the proposed constitutional amendments at the special election held yesterday, the first since 1911, when the capitol building bonds were voted.

The soldier bonus amendment, number 3 on the ballot, had a narrow escape from defeat, the favorable margin being less than 200 votes. The total number of votes cast on this measure was less than on any of the others.

Least opposition was voiced to Amendment 2, providing that road bond interest be paid from the automobile license fund. The vote was more than two to one in favor of the proposition. Amendment Number 1, enabling women to hold any office in the state carried by a good margin.

More votes were cast on the proposition for a constitutional convention than on any of the other measures. The New Constitution Association of Missouri waged a last minute campaign which resulted in getting out a few additional supporters, and the proposition carried by a substantial margin. If Nodaway county may be taken as an index, the vote throughout the state will be favorable, as the cities are expected to turn in large majorities for revising the constitution under which the state is now operating.

The proposition for a constitutional convention carried in fifteen precincts and was defeated in eight. In Washington township the vote was a tie. The vote in Maryville was 471 to 257.

The voters in five precincts opposed giving women the right to hold office. These precincts were North and South Grant, South Jefferson, Union and North White Cloud. In the Fourth Ward of Maryville, sentiment was evenly divided, the vote standing 90 for and 90 against.

The proposition to pay the interest on the road bonds from the automobile license fund carried in every precinct except North Grant and South Lincoln, where the vote was a tie.

The soldier bonus amendment carried in seventeen precincts and was defeated in seven, including the second ward of Maryville.

The vote on the four propositions was as follows:

Constitutional Convention: Yes, 1,450; No, 1,076.

Amendment Two, road bond interest to be paid from automobile license fund—Yes, 1,757; No, 732.

Amendment Three, soldier bonus: Yes, 1,326; No, 1,143.

The total vote cast in the county at yesterday's election was 2,526 while there was 12,379 votes cast at the election November 2, 1920.

GUARANTORS FACE CHAUTAUQUA LOSS

MUST GET TO WORK OR PAY, WARNS HULL

TENT IS DUE TONIGHT

Will be Erected on High School Grounds Tomorrow and Program Starts Friday.

Unless they get to work at once, two hundred guarantors of the Maryville Chautauqua are going to have to dig down in their pockets to make up a big deficit, warns H. W. Hull, who has charge of the ticket sale.

At the meeting held last night in the Farm Bureau Rooms, only about a dozen Chautauqua boosters were present, and not enough workers could be recruited this morning to conduct the house-to-house campaign that the leaders consider necessary to sell the required number of tickets. The Chautauqua company is guaranteed $1,800 by the local men. If that amount is not raised, the deficit must be pro-rated among the guarantors.

"If they don't want the Chautauqua, all they have to do is to stay at home and foot the bill," said Mr. Hull. "If the guarantors do not come out tomorrow and help with the sale of tickets, they are going to be in the hole."

Some tickets were sold at the four banks in the preliminary sale, and the sale is progressing very moderately in various stores today, Mr. Hull said. The only way to dispose of the required number of tickets before the Chautauqua opens Friday, he thinks is to have a house-to-house canvass, but unless there are volunteers from among the guarantors several workers must be hired to do the canvassing.

A letter from the Redpath-Vawter Company received by G. B. Roseberry, says that this is the hardest year everywhere for guarantors to sell tickets. The programs, however, have been well received. At one place the guarantors had to make up a deficit of $700 but at the close of the week the program had been so good that they again signed up for a Chautauqua the next year.

Tickets are on sale in seventeen different places. Those who wish to purchase them may get them there, while all who can assist in the house-to-house canvass are urged to call Mr. Hull.

Guarantors minght as well buy tickets now and avoid a deficit. Mr. Hull points out, as to hold back and then have to pay several dollars and get nothing for their money.

The big, brown tent will arrive in Maryville tonight and will be erected on the High School grounds tomorrow. Jesse Boatman, a Maryville boy now with the Redpath-Vawter Company, will be in charge of the Chautauqua property.

The program will open at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon with the Orchestral Troubaduors, George Tack's

BLAZIER GIVEN FINES OF $175

PLEADED GUILTY TO CHARGES IN SPECIAL COURT SESSION

ALSO A JAIL SENTENCE

Court, However, Paroled Blazier from Sentence in Jail—Fred Carpenter's Case Continued to September

Roscoe Blazier of Maitland, who was arrested last Thursday morning charged with the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor, driving a car while intoxicated, and operating a motor vehicle without license, was given a total fine of $175, and a year's jail sentence after pleading guilty to all three charges in a special session of the circuit court this morning. Blazier was up in city police court last Saturday and was fined $45 and together with costs amounted to $58.30. A parole was given by the court on the sentence of one year in jail which was given Blazier on the charge of unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor. Prosecuting Attorney McCaffrey wanted Blazier to serve a part of his jail sentence, but the court after hearing the evidence on this charge decided on a parole. The conditions of Blazier's parole were not to take a drink, not to be around where there is drinking and gambling.

In discussing the case, Mr. McCaffrey said:

"Of course it was the duty of the court in assessing the punishment, to consider all the facts and circumstances connected with the case. I was only presenting the state's side and not considering any explanation offered by the defendant. The court couldn't do that, but it's my duty to consider both sides fairly and impartially. The case wasn't as strong as I would like to have had it, so I am entirely satisfied with the result. It ought to serve as a warning to others, as the sheriff's office and my own intend to continue on arresting and prosecuting all bootleggers and those engaged in the transportation of booze."

On the charge of using a motor vehicle without a license, Blazier was given the minimum fine of $25, and on the charge of driving while intoxicated he was given a fine of $50.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles McCaffrey recommended that the court be lenient on the defendant on the charge concerning the operation of a car without license and that he give him the maximum penalty on the charge of drunkenness. The maximum in that case would have been a fine of $100 and a prison sentence. He recommended that Blazier be given a good substantial punishment on the charge of transportation of liquor. The punishment for such cases would be for the first offense a fine of not less than $100 and not to exceed $1,000, and a jail penalty of not less than thirty days and not more than one year.

The evidence which the state produced to prove that Blazier had transported liquor was a large bottle which contained a small amount of liquid which resembled corn whiskey. The evidence was discounted by the court because of the small amount in the bottle and the testimony of Mrs. Blazier that she had put the bottle in the car last Tuesday when she picked it up on the road between Maitland and Graham.

The car which Blazier had driven to Maryville last Thursday morning did not have the license number on it that was issued to that car. Blazier knew of this when he left Maitland with the car.

Blazier was arrested about 6 o'clock last Thursday morning which Night Watchman Ed Wallace saw him on First street near the Hospital where it is charged that he needed the entire width of the street to drive his car and after he was arrested he was so drunk that he could not be arraigned before Mayor F. P. Robinson until late that afternoon. After Wallace first saw him near the hospital he followed him through town and to the jail where Blazier had started to confer with Fred Carpenter, who was confined there on four state charges. Judge Dawson said one of his reasons for fixing Blazier's penalty so heavy was his association with Carpenter and the statement by the prosecuting attorney that he bore the reputation of a bootlegger both in Maitland and Graham and other towns in this county and Holt county.

Fred Carpenter, who was arrested, charged with unlawful possession of a still, unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquors, unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor, and unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor, enter a plea of not guilty and these cases were continued until the September term. Bail was fixed at $300 on each charge.

VOTED 3 TO 1 FOR SOLDIER BONUS PLAN

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION CARRIED BY SAFE VOTE.

OPPOSITION TO WOMEN

Proposition for Women to Hold Any Office Bitterly Opposed—Road Bond Interest Plan Carried.

St. Louis, Aug. 3.—Missouri voted better than three to one yesterday to appropriate 15 million dollars for giving the soldiers a bonus, virtually complete returns showed today.

The propositions for holding a constitutional convention and using the automobile license money to pay interest on road bonds also carried with the proposition for women holding office slightly leading but still in doubt.

The vote throughout the state was unusually light.

The proposal to take the word "male" from the constitution, so women may hold public office, met even greater opposition than the constitutional convention. The women's amendment was running far behind the other three proposals in most of the counties heard from.

PLAYERS ACQUITTED BUT CAN NEVER PLAY AGAIN

Organized Baseball Has No Place for "Bunch of Crooked Gamblers," Says Judge Landis.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The seven former Chicago White Sox players and two others on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the public through throwing of the 1919 world series games were last night found not guilty by a jury.

These players, despite their acquittal of the conspiracy charges, will never play in organized baseball again. This was emphatically announced today by Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, who declared that no player who was associated with a "bunch of crooked gamblers" are wanted in baseball.

The defendants were Buck Weaver, third baseman; Oscar Felsch, outfielder; Charles Risberg, shortstop; Arnold Gandil, first baseman; Claude Williams and Eddie Cicotte, pitchers; Joe Jackson, outfields—all former White Sox players—and Carl Zork of St. Louis and David Zelcer of Des Moines.

"I do not believe the fans want to see the players back," said Charles Comiskey, owner of the Whitesox. "It's my duty to do what the public wants. I have nothing against the players and will be glad to see them back in the game. I'm glad they were freed. They may get on another team in the league."

MONEY IS PROVIDED FOR CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION COST.

Jefferson City, Aug. 3.—The constitutional amendment adopted last fall gives the constitutional convention the same power as the legislature to appropriate money from state revenues for its own expenses and fixes these expenses. The amendment in part follows:

"The convention shall have power to appoint such officers, employes and assistants as it may be necessary and fix their compensation, and provide for the printing of its documents, journals, proceedings and a record of its debates, and to appropriate money to pay for the expenditures incurred."

The amendment further provides that members "shall receive for their services the sum of $10 per diem and mileage as provided by law for members of the general assembly."

The provision giving the convention power over its own appropriation for expenses is customary with all constitutional conventions. If the convention were dependent on the legislature for money it would give the legislature a club over the delegates that might, if the legislature desired, affect the deliberations of the convention and the framing of the constitution itself.

BRYAN SUPPORTS HARDING'S PLAN

PEOPLE MAY BE MORE HOPEFUL FOR UNIVERSAL ORDER

PROHIBITION WILL STAY

Seeds of World's Peace Are in President's Posponed Disarmament Conference, Says Commoner

St. Louis Mo., Augu 3.—The world should look hopefully forward to President Harding's proposed disarmament conference, according to William Jennings Bryan, erstwhile Secretary of State in the Cabinet of former President Woodrow Wilson.

"Those who have been hoping and praying for universal peace., declarer Bryan, while here on a tour of the West", "have more reason than ever to be hopeful today. President Harding's proposed peace conference, if successful will be the greatest gathering in centuries. The peace conference at Paris ended one war. This conference may end all wars."

Attacks Booze Law Enforcers

When shown headlines in a local newspaper detailing the capture of two large whiskey stills, Bryan declared prohibition has come to stay.

"Phohibition is permanent," he declared emphatically, "Before prohibition went into effect carloads of liquor were shipped into the cities, hauled by drays to saloons on prominent corners and displayed alluringly on the shelves and in windows.

"Now liquor is brought in handbags at night by bootleggers who sneak through the alleys. That is some change. Where the law is not enforced it is mainly where the enforceing officers are not in sympathy with the law. An officer who sits down and listens to a debate between his appetite and his oath of office, before starting on a raid, is apt to arrive too late. it's something like allowing horsethieves to elect a sheriff.

"Besides those who aren't willing to cut out their own supply, we have thoe who are crooked; but we have the same problem to deal with in enforcing all laws. Many automobiles are stolen, but no one suggests that the law aginst automobile thefts be repealed."

The "wets," Bryan declared smilingly, thought the beer ruling by former attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer was a ray of sunshine.

"It turned out to be a ray of 'moonshine,' he scoffed, " and the 'shine' will soon be taken out of it by an act of Congress.

"I don't see how beer can ever come back. It it cannot come back as a medicine, how is it going to have a chance to come back as a beverage?"

The "wet" parade in New York on July 4 didn't have "one-half of one percent kick," Bryan said.

"The funeral obsequies of John Barleycorn are all over," he continued enthusistically. "It was estimated that 300,000 persons would march in the New York 'booze coterie', but it turned out that only 14,900 actually marched in the parade. Nine hundred of those were musician, paid by sorehead brewery agents. The funeral services are sure over."

Supports Excess Profits Tax

The corpulent, many-time Presidential candidate also had a few remarks to make about taxes. The great question is not so much reduction of taxes he asserted, as the selection of things to be taxed.

"The only tax repeal which has been vociferously demanded," stated Bryan, is the excess profits tax. This should be the last tax repealed. It is a tax collected only on excess profits—that is the tax that ought not to be taken from the purchaser. It is the only tax that one can repeal himself, without seeking the aid or consent of anyone else. If he will stop stealing he will not have to divide with the Government."

The Commoner smiled broadly when I mentioned the Irish situation. "A new armistice day," was his description of the day Irish peace is established. It is difficult for anyone not actually affected by the Irish situation, he said, to understand all the difficulties to be overcome. The entire world will rejoice, he stated, if a basis of permanent peace in Ireland is reached.

Has the Democratic party a chance to "come back"? he was asked. "Indeed it has a very good chance to again gain control of the administration," he asserted emphatically.

"The reaction against the Republicans already has set in," declared Bryan. "It is possible for the Democrats to gain control of the next Congress if they will stand on the side of the people on all questions.

"The Democrats should select a progressive man in every district now represented by a Republican and put him to work discussing public questions in his district, with a view to winning the next Congressional election; not a man who will make a bid for the vote of the underworld, but a man—or a woman— who will appeal to the consciences of the voters as well as to their judgments, to women as well as to men—a man or a woman who will represent the masses instead of the profiteers and privilege hunters."

JOKER IN BOND BILL FEARED BY LEGISLATORS

Governor Will be Asked to Reject It—Speaker O'Fallon Says Act Is Not Constitutional.

Jefferson City, Aug. 3.—When Gov. Hyde returns to the capital he will be asked to refuse to sign a bill which passed the senate unobserved in the final rush, and which some legislators suspect may be dangerous to the carrying out of the good roads program. The measure resembles that which the Kelso-Donlin group of dirt roads advocates tried in vain to have attached to the road bill.

The measure in question was a committee substitute bill introduced by Meyers of St. Clair, Hardin of Gentry and Allison of Maries county. It was passed by the house July 27, having run the gantlet of the judiciary and the roads committees. In effect, the bill enables counties to buy their own bonds.

Lawyer legislators say the bill would result in wild-cat road building, with the expectation of reimbursement of the counties under the new $95,000,000 road law.

Where the Danger Lies.

Under the Morgan-McCullough law, a large amount of road mileage has been planned, and either is building or is about to be built, partly with county funds. Many counties have been unable to sell their bonds. If they were able to buy their own bonds, there is nothing to prevent counties all over the state from plunging into road building in the expectation of being reimbursed under the new state law, without actually spending any money.

Representative Stockard of Green county called attention to this danger early in the session, under the reimbursement plan. In addition, lawyers have informed administration leaders that under the state constitution bonds cannot be issued in Missouri except for value actually received.

Legislators said that the bill, if it became law, would result in an immediate crop of lawsuits, which would endanger many of the road contracts already made under the McCullough-Morgan law, and which are a part of the new state system.

"The supreme court will knock out the bill if ever it gets by the governor," Speaker O'Fallon said. "In the first place it is unconstitutional and in the second place it is a bad bill and should not have been passed."

Old Settler

Editor, Democrat-Forum I read a letter in your paper of July 22 written by my old friend and comrade, Chas. Hyslop, stating the many changes that had taken place in Maryville since he became a citizen in 1874. This caused my mind to wander back to 1865, just after the close of the Civil War, when I crossed the Mississippi River in a boat and bought a ticket over the Hannibal R. R. to St. Joseph.

"The road was so torn by factions of both armies during the former year of strife that it made it somewhat dangerous to ride on the train. They used wood in those early days instead of coal for fuel to make steam for propelling their cars, and made slow progress and many times I would walk behind the train to see on either side of the road through the timber. It was not unusual to see them stop often and take on wood for the engine.

"Finally I landed in St. Joseph on the morning of May 13, 1865, and in the forenoon I sauntered around the city which was called the gateway to the Far West, and in the evening I boarded a train for Savannah, then the terminal of the road, and spent the night at a hotel on the south of the Square, which was kept by a man by the name of Richards. I first met George Davis and learned that he was running a hack between Savannah and Maryville, and, being comrades in arms, we soon formed an acquaintance which happily has been the most pleasant during our 56 years of continued citizenship. Despite those long years they have had a tendency to glue our friendship more closely together.

"Early on the morning of May 14, we started for Maryville. When we reached the Bennett lane, noticing the horses splashing and floundering, and becoming somewhat peeved, I stuck my head out of the hack and asked Mr. Davis why he had not taken the upper road instead of the bottom road his answer to me was that there was no upper road and only for the fence rails beneath there would be no bottom road. I at once thought to myself if I was imbued with the least bit of profanity, I could without a moment's hesitation furnish the words applicable to the situation.

"On arriving at the White Cloud, the stream looked swollen and angry, so I warned Mr. Davis of the danger and his reply was that there was a low water bridge spanning the stream. Well that was a stunner; I had never heard of that kind of a bridge. At any rate we crossed safely.

"A little farther on we came to a log house on the west side of the road where Cana Baker kept a store, and I think he kept the post office there. We then started for Maryville, and the first residence we came to was Wm. Denning on the east side of the road; the next was a brick house on the west side of the road on the old Colonel Prather farm occupied by Uncle Bennie Wheeler, father of Mrs. Laveneour Michau; the next was Nick Swearingen's.

"On my arrival in Maryville I stopped at Billy Swinford's hotel, situated on the corner where the Linville Hotel now stands. I inquired as to the population and was told that it was about 300. Everybody knew everybody and everybody attended strictly to his own business. I then inquired as to the most prominent business men and was given the names of Jas. B. Prather, Theodore Robinson, Mathew G. Roseberry, Albert P. Morehouse, Thaddeus G. Beal, James R. Carver, Dr. J. B. Mulholland, Berryman D. Davis, Joseph Jackson and Dr. B. J. Ford. This was before Judge Lafe Dawson's time.

"I then started to the post office, going north. I came to a picket fence, which I afterwards learned was Eliza Ashford's garden fence, and in the northwest corner stood a one-story frame house in which Mr. and Mrs. Ashford lived and in front Mrs. Ashford kept a millinery store, and on the corner where the First National Bank now stands, Billy Turpin kept a saloon in which Jonathan Allen was killed.

"I then went across the street to where the Nodaway Valley Bank now stands and there stood a one-story frame building in which A. C. Votaw, the postmaster, kept his office. About ten feet back from the front office, stood a partition and as the postoffice boxes were very limited, the postmaster would call the names from the inside and when answered from outside, he would throw the letters over the partition. Lest this letter might reach the waste basket I had better close, although I have scarcely scratched the surface.

COST OF EXTRA SESSION TO BE $109,000; VERY EXPENSIVE

The cost of the extra session will be $109,000 according to an appropriation bill passed Tuesday to provide the money to meet the expenses of the session. Of the money appropriated $55,000 is to pay salaries and mileage of the members and $54,000 for incidental expenses, including clerical hire.

The regular session of the Fifty-first General Assembly cost $280,000 with a deficit of $16,000 which all added together makes the cost of the Fifty-first General Assembly total $405,000 or the most expensive of any legislature that did not include a session charged with the duty of revising the statutes of the state.

Whether the appropriation of $109,000 will meet the expenses of the session is not known. Because of the apparent disregard for cost to the taxpayers many feel that a deficit will likely be incurred.

The average value of horses in the United States according to the census was $90.13 as compared with $105.06 in 1910. The average for mules was $142.88 compared with $124.80 in 1910.

The values of cattle in 1920 and 1910 respectively were $54.40 and $24.26 of sheep $11.30 and $4.44 and of swine $16.66 as against $6.86.

BETTER FINANCIAL CONDITIONS APPEAR

WITH 1921 WHEAT CROP IN, MORE MONEY IN BANKS.

BETTER THAN LAST YEAR

Financial conditions of this section of the country have begun to ease up since the proceeds of the shipment of the 1921 wheat crop have begun to find their ways into the country bank during the last part of July, says the Monthly Review, which covers the conditions in the tenth Federal Reserve District of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

The conditions are better than they were this time last year, as the steady liquidation of loans in the past several months has put the banks in position to meet the seasonal demands without such large outside borrowings as they had about this time last year.

The increasing inflow of new wheat money is beginning to ease up the situation in the agriculture sections and to influence further liquidation. The demand for currency and credit from other industrial and commercial lines continues strong and are being fairly well met, though it cannot be said that the "easy money" stage has been reached in this district.

Summary of record of six months of 1921 in the Tenth Federal Reserve District with changes from last year's six months record shown in percentages of increase or decrease:

Bank clearings in 33 cities $7,617,700,215, decrease 33.1 per cent.

BLACK CASKETS ARE GOING OUT OF STYLE RAPIDLY

White And Gray Are Preferred For Both Caskets and Burial Garbs.

Black caskets are going out of "style", according to Moberly undertakers. "It is true that black caskets are seldom asked for any more although we still carry them on display" said F. B. Mahan, of Mahan and Son.

At a recent funeral directors convention the subject of black caskets came up and was discussed. In each case the director stated that the black was losing favor in the undertaking business and that gray was taking its place, with white ranking about the same. No reason could be given for the slump in the black other than "they're simply not doing it that way any more."

One undertaker recently gave his definition of the unpopularity of black caskets as follows:

"Its the same proposition as going into a store and buying a suit of clothes. Any tailor will say that he is selling less black cloth today than he ever did, and he in turn can not tell the reason. Its simply a matter of taste, and most people prefer to have their relatives buried in something other than a black casket."

Black burial garbs are too, falling into discard and demands now are for the white and the gray. "Black" funerals, which once were in evidence, are giving way to "pure white ones", this, undertakers say, is not through disregard for the dead, but just matter of form".

HENRY FORD'S BAND WILL BE AT SEDALIA AUGUST 11

200-Piece Organization, Led By Himself Will Help Observe "Ford Day".

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 2.—Thursday, 11, will be Ford Day at the Missouri Centennial Exposition and State Fair, according to the revised program announced at the State Fair offices here today. Henry Ford is expected to attend.

The biggest feature of the day will be the appearance of the Ford Motor Company Band. Postive assurance was received here this morning that this 200-piece organization would arrive in Sedalia Thursday morning, August 11. A special train chartered for the purpose will bring the band from Detroit to Sedalia. A parade led by the band will march through the down-town district, out to the Fair Grounds, around the race track and to the Amphitheater, where the band has three reserved sections. Every owner of a "flivver" will be invited to line up in the procession.

The visit of the Ford band here will be its second appearance outside of Detroit. It will play at no other State Fair, except the Michigan Fair at Detroit. Henry Ford is expected to lead the column following the big band from the train.

From their reserved seats in the Amphitheater, the Ford contingent will see the attractions on the race track. The usual afternoon stunts of Ruth Law in her airplane circus will be seen, as well as the hippodrome and vaudeville acts. One is that of ice skating under the August sun, quite a stunt.

In the afternoon, the program will be replete with Ford attractions. The little cars will have speed contests. Their races should be unusually interesting. There also will be a fashion show for Ford cars and a novelty show, demonstrating the many kinds of bodies and the added equipment to which the unassuming Ford has had to submit.

A convention of Ford dealers in Missouri will be held during the day. More than 450 dispensers of the "one inimitable" will gather to discuss their prolems.

The day promises to be one of the most complete on the two weeks' schedule. It is probably unique in its thorough program and entertainment.

From reading his daily, Abe Martin reasons that it requires a lot more sense to live decently than it does to make a couple of million dollars.

KU KLUX KLAN WHIP CITIZEN OF NORBORNE

Citizen Had Been Mistreating His Wife, It Is Alleged.

The Ku Klux Klan is getting busy in Missouri according to the following article which appeared in the Carrollton Democrat:

Texas is not the only place where the Ku Klux Klan is at work. Friday night a well known citizen of Norborne felt the sting of the whip in the hands of unknown parties, who took him about two miles in the country, tied him up and used the blacksnake vigorously.

The names of the men who made up the band are not known. However, it is known that the man who was beaten black and blue, had been warned in various ways that he would have to change his action towards his wife or he would suffer.

More than this, it is a known fact that he had been having clandestine meetings with a certain other woman in the community and had been warned by a relative of hers to keep away or suffer the consequences.

Friday night of last week, he was seen prowling in the yard of the house this woman lived in and the band of Ku Klux Klan was in waiting to give him a lesson.

After the men had taken him to the country, given him a sound whipping, he was again loaded in the automobile and brought back to the business section of Norborne and put out of the car. The mysterious band dispersed and not a soul knows who was in the whipping corps.

Before the victim was released, he was warned that this was just the first lesson and that if he continued in his dishonorable pursuits, he would feel harsher punishment at the hands of his captors.

WOMEN MEN ADMIRE.

Men admire a pretty face, a good figure, but most of all the happy, healthy, contented woman, as beauty fades and the figure will change. Women who are troubled with backache, headaches, those dreadful dragging sensations, and nervous irritability, cannot hope to be popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible. The cause of these troubles, however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it it a natural restorative for such conditions, and dispels effectually all those distressing symptoms.—Adv.

MISSOURI IS CLASSED AS PRODUCER OF GOLD

Silver to Value of $126,083 Is Secured From Zinc Fields of Southwest.

Missouri is classed among the gold producing states by the Unted States Geological Survey preliminary report, just received by the State Bureau of Labor Statistics. In 1920 there were 19 troy ounces of gold, valued at $400, produced in Missouri, this is but a small amount but of the twenty-one states listed as gold producing states, six have a smaller average production than Missouri. In 1919, Missouri produced 14 troy ounces of gold, valued at $300.

Missouri is also a silver producing state. In 1920 the state produced 123,219 troy ounces of silver valued at $126,083. In 1919 the production of silver was 75,991 troy ounces, valued at $85,176.

CHILDREN'S READING TASTES ARE SIMILAR TO ELDERS.'

Library Report Shows Both Read Fiction in Preference to "Literature."

The monthly report of the Maryville free public library, as submitted by Miss Grace Langan for the month of July, showed 1,285 readers accommodated during the month. There were 244 children who visited the library and out of the total number of readers there were 682 who came to the periodical room and 286 in the reference room. Sunday use of the library was not so great as the average daily attendance, there being only 18 Sunday visitors each week during July, while the average daily attendance was 42.

Maryville children are using the library the same as the older people, according to the report. There were 426 juvenile books loaned. The children's tastes seem to be about the same as the older persons, as there were 345 of the total number of children's books loaned which were fiction. Eighty-one were non-fiction.

Out of the 834 books loaned in the general department there were 798 classed as fiction. Of the remaining thirty-six books, history leads with a loan of nine. This is followed by literature, of which there was a loan of eight. Other books which were loaned during the month were books on philosophy, religion, sociology, natural science, useful arts and fine arts.

A total of ninety-six magazines were loaned. Of this number there were nine loaned in the juvenile department.

The total number of books and magazines for the month numbered 1,356. The average books and magazines loaned a day was 54. The number of readers' cards issued was seventeen.

Fines for the month amounted to $9.08 and the amount collected from the cent-a-day method of loaning books was $8.42, giving a total of $17.50 taken in for the entire month.

Breaking The Shackles of Time

Clocks are as much a matter of course as suspenders or sausages. But it took energy and initiative to get the FIRST clock on the kitchen shelf and start it going. The YANKEE pack peddler was sole distributor and transporter. His lean, lanky, loose-jointed legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days.

Modern transportation with progressive sales methods—AND ADVERTISING—have broken the shackles of time. They make a quick job of what used to take years. Through advertising, many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country.

This newspaper does you a two-fold service. It not only brings you news of the world, but also news of what to buy, where to buy and how to buy.

The advertisements are news columns of merchants and manufacturers who have important stories to tell you.

Take advantage of them. Read the latest news of good things to be had—and where to get them.

MAKE SURE YOU GET ALL THE NEWS.

COOPER GIVES ADVICE TO COUNTY SCHOOL BOARDS

Urges That All Schools Be Cleaned, Papered and Painted and Begin on September 5.

A circular letter sent out from the office of Bert Cooper, county superintendent of schools, should be on the desk of every clerk of a school district in the county by this time, urging the school boards to be in their schools on Monday, September 5, this year, and to make the necessary repairs on buildings and school grounds to insure the best work of the students and to safe guard their health.

Mr. Cooper wishes all of the schools to begin September 5 so that they can follow the course of study with uniformity. He also says that if any schools have not secured teachers if they will notify him he will be glad to assist them.

He urges that the rural school board get the school house in good repair, and by all means to paper and paint if the building needs it. In regard to the papering and painting the letter said: "It is a matter of economy to keep the school house and outbuildings painted and adds much to their appearance. If the walls are dingy or dirty, by all means paper, paint or give them a coat of Alabastine which costs almost nothing but cleans the walls and gives them a good tint. The desks should be cleaned out and washed and perhaps painted."

His strongest appeal toward the health of the students was concerning the wells, of which he says: "By all means see that your well is cleaned out and the water made perfectly pure and wholesome. Poor water means sickness and often death. We dare not risk the lives of the children for a few dollars."

To Kansas City.

Mrs. H. H. Kerr and daughters, Margaret and Helen Elizabeth, will go to Kansas City the latter part of the week to join Mr. Kerr over the week end.

STUNTS BY RUTH LAW

There Will be Games and Contests For the Young and Old August 8-20

Sedalia, Mo., Aug 2.—Neither Babe Ruth or Jack Dempsey will be at the Missouri Centennial Exposition, but that doesn't mean that lovers of sport who attend the Exposition will not see any exciting games or contests while they are here.

The most exciting stunt, and undoubtedly one that will cause many a person's heart to stop beating a minute and cause cold chills to run up his spine a second later, will be the daredevil change of Louis James, airplane stunt flyer with Ruth Law's Flying Circus, from auto to plane. This stunt is staged on the quarter stretch of the mile race track here, directly before the Amphitheater. He will make the change every afternoon. And in addition to this, Ruth Law will herself give morning, afternoon and evening exhibitions, stunt flying, wing walking, and night flying.

Auto races, with some of the fastest drivers in the country entered will feature the afternoons of Monday, August 8, Saturday, August 13, and the following Saturday. Larry D. Stone, Bob Robinson, Lou Schiebel and Johnny Waters, in addition to fifteen or twenty other drivers will compete in the speed events.

There will be auto polo contests every afternoon and evening of the first week. The contests will be held between American and British auto polo teams.

Horse Racing, "The Sport of Kings," will also prove a big drawing card at the Centennial Fair here next week. Already trainers and horses have begun to arrive and the track is a training ground for some of the fastest horses in the country. Many Grand Circuit horses have been entered this year, and lovers of the sport will witness races, equalled only by those of 1909, when Dan Patch and Minor Heir raced here. Horse races will be held the afternoon of August 15 to 19 inclusive. Purses total $26,750 which accounts for the speedy horses that have been entered.

An "Old Timers" program of pitching horse shoes, a tug-of-war, town ball, a fiddling contest, shinny, mumble peg, long town ball, and possibly a barbecue is also being arranged as one of the features of the Centennial Exposition. Special games and contests for the women are also being arranged for.

W. D. McKee, an institute lecturer of the Board of Agriculture, of Jefferson City, was in Sedalia a few days ago, arranging with C. H. McClure, head of the History Department of the State Teachers' College of Warrensburg, for the program. Mr. McKee will be superintendent of the "Old Timers" program.

From 8 to 10 o'clock each morning there will be a program of old games and contests. Many an old timer who has thought the "good old times" were gone forever, will enter into these contests with a vim commendable to his seventy or eighty years.

The tune

"Everytime I come to town,
The boys keep kickin' my dawg aroun'
Makes no difference if he is a houn'
They gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun' ".

played by an old fiddler, on a still older squeeky fiddle, followed by the Arkansaw Traveler, will no doubt bring fond memories to many an old timer visiting the Centennial Exposition.

"Sorgum Holler" and "Possum Run" are now summer resorts, and the old spinning wheel is on exhibition. An apple peeling party is remembered by only the oldest inhabitants, and the younger generation can but dimly remember hearing of a huskin' bee. Many an "old Codger's" longing for a return to those old days will be satisfied in part at the Centennial.

From 10 to 12 each morning it is planned to have demonstrations of pioneer manufactures of Missouri. At 1:30 o'clock each afternoon, it is planned to have short talks by old Missourians. A platform will be erected in the historical exhibits buildings, and those that gather will hear many an interesting story swapped by old white haired ladies and gentlemen assembled.

New Autumn Modes

Dame Fashion is a clever minx this season. While she has foisted upon us no startling new decrees to follow, she incessantly hints of the new style developments that cannot be ignored.

An artful alteration of the accumstomed silhouette. A barbaric touch of metal garniture. A bizarre effect in combining colors. An audacious slitting of sleeve or skirt. All these and many more Fashion touches keep our interest at concert pitch.

These early presentations of the new fall modes are full of meaning to the observing. Not the least in importance is the trend of prices—appreciably downward on every hand.

We are this week displaying the new fall styles in Tailored Suits, Dresses, Wraps, Sweaters, Millinery, Footwear, Accessories and Fall Fabrics.

Come in and inspect the New Fashions whether interested in buying at present or not.

THE MISSOURI CENTENNIAL QUEEN

THE "land of beautiful girls" that the musical comedy stars always sing about will be a reality at the Centennial Exposition and State Fair in Sedalia August 8-20.

There will be 114 maids of honor, one from each county in the State, who will take part in the great "Pageant of Missouri" each night during the first week of Missouri's hundredth birthday celebration. Miss Leola Ernst of Washington is the Centennial Queen, elected last year at the 1920 State Fair.

The queen and her maids of honor were selected as the prettiest, most amiable and most attractive girls in their home counties. Effectively gowned, they will have a prominent part in the great Pageant.

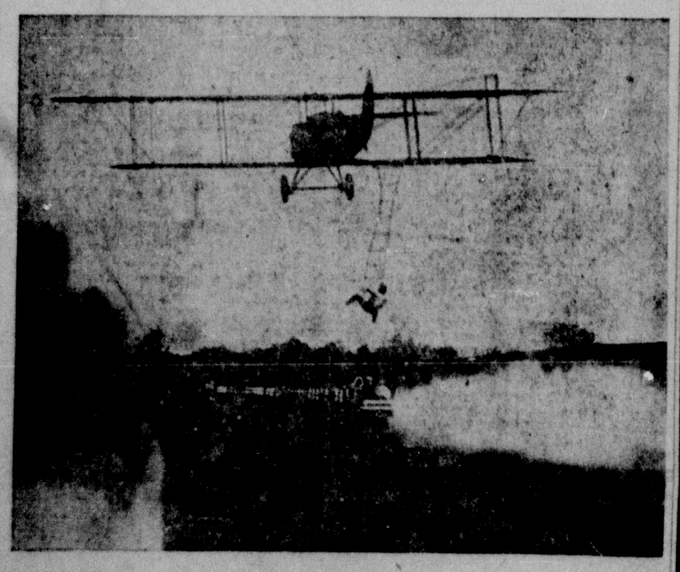
Hundreds of other beautiful women and girls will have parts in the great pageant cast. Among them will be a group of professional dancers who will form a rhythmic background for the premiere danseuse, the identity of whom has not been announced. The girls will be of all ages. Thirty-five little girls, dressed as fairies, wood-nymphs, flower-spirits, and air-spirits, will dance in the immense ballet which is to open "The Pageant of Missouri." Gounod's famous ballet suite from "The Queen of Sheba" has been chosen by the pageant directors as the most suitable music for this spectacular ballet. As the eighty-piece orchestra plays the opening strains of this fascinating music, thousands of lights will slowly grow brighter until a rosy tint of dawn covers the stage. Amid a sudden swelling of the music, hundreds of giant flowers will open, and ballet dancers, draped in gossamer-like scarfs of the softest pastel shades, will leap forth and join in the great ensemble dance.

In other parts of the pageant the maids of honor and the ballet girls will be garbed in more elaborate costumes. Stately robes, resplendent with jeweled ornaments and riotously beautiful in their savage coloring, will be used by the pageant planners to carry out the most beautiful and exotic scenes ever witnessed on a Missouri stage.

Ice Skating Under the August Sun!

THE Alaska Duo, an attraction at the Centennial-Fair at Sedalia August 8-20, carry their own skating floor with them. They skate on ice chemically frozen right under the August sun! It will cool you off to watch them. Theirs is a mid-winter stunt performed in the middle of the summer.

OUT OF THE AUTO INTO THE PLANE



WHEN RUTH LAW, famous woman aviator, skims down near the surface of the race track at the Centennial Exposition and State Fair in Sedalia August 8-20, there will be a rope ladder dangling from her airplane.

Louis James, a member of the Ruth Law Flying Circus, will jump from a racing motor car, grasp the ladder and climb to the wings of the plane. It sounds easy, but you'll get a thrill from watching it!

Hundreds of thrills a day, all of them of this calibre, are scheduled for the great Centennial-Fair. A million Missourians from every corner of the world will be present to celebrate Missouri's hundredth birthday. All railroads are making special rates to Sedalia August 8-20.

FIGHT ON REFERENDUM LOST IN SUPREME COURT

State Bench by Vote of 5 to 2 Decides Kansas City Justice of Peace Bills.

Jefferson City, Mo., August 3.—The Supreme Court, by a vote of 5 to 2 Monday sustained the Democratic referendum of the Kansas City Justice of the Peace and Constable bills, and they must be voted upon at the general election November, 1922."

Four Democratic Judges, Woodson, J. T. Blair, Graves and Walker, and one Republican Judge, Conway Elder of St. Louis, upheld the referendum which was invoked by Democratic Justices of the Peace in Kansas City after the measure, legislating them out of office and creating a new municipal justice court was passed. Woodson wrote the ruling opinion.

Two Republican Judges, D. E. Blair and Edward Higbee, dissented holding that the legislature has power to designate which of its acts are necessary to the "immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety," and to thereby exempt them from the referendum.

The Justice of the Peace bills were passed by the Republican majority in the Legislature as party measures. Every Democratic vote in both branches of the General Assembly were cast against their passage. Senator Proctor, who sponsored the bills in the Legislature, said their necessity was felt at Kansas City because of the abuses which had grown up in the Justice of the Peace Courts as constituted.

The Republican majority wrote into the bills the so-called "public peace, health and safety" clause which was intended, if possible, to exempt them from the provisions of the referendum which Democrats before the passage of the measure were threatening to invoke.

HITCHCOCK URGES BANK OF NATIONS

SENATOR SUGGESTS METHOD TO STABILIZE WORLD'S FINANCES

WOULD BE IN NEW YORK

International Institution Would Have Capital Stock of $2,400,000,000 — Branches Everywhere

Washington, Aug. 3—A bank of Nations is being urged upon Congress by Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, ranking Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and millionaire newspaper publisher, as a panacea for the international financial jam in which the wide, wide world is caught just now.

Hitchcock has sponsored a bill for the establishment of the Bank of Nations at New York City, with branch offices in this and other countries. He would incorporate it as an international banking institution with a capital stock of $2,400,000,000 divided into 246,000 shares of $10,000 each.

Sounds like a financial pipe dream but Hitchcock insists that some kind of an international Federal Reserve banking system is the only practical way to end the perilous fluctuation of exchange values and the dangerous piling up of "frozen credit" now troubling the world's financiers.

"Everyone recognizes that there exists in the United States and other countries at the present time a great demoralization of business, a high rate of unemployment and a general unprofitable condition in all lines of trade," Hitchcock said. "International commerce is almost in a state of collapse. The United States has an enormouse surplus of products which it is unable to sell, while other nations have a great need of these products and are not able to buy them."

Two causes may be given in Hitchcock's judgment, for these conditions more than any others:

1. The unstable condition of international exchange which has fluctuated so violently during the last two years that it has made exporting and importing a dangerous gamble and has ruined hundreds of firms attempting international commerce.

2. The exhaustion of international credit due to the enormous balance of trade which was not paid for in products and could not be paid for in gold. Attempts by private concerns to supply this credit have only resulted in the exhaustion of their resources.

Stabilization is Aim

Hitchcock believes that such conditions can be remedied by the establishment of an entirely new international agency to stabilize international exchange and to foster an international credit system.

"Inasmuch as the United States now holds more than one-half of all the gold of the world, which it is not using, and inasmuch as the United States has become the great creditor of the world," Hitchcock said, "no effort to restore commerce, to stabilize exchange and to establish credit can be made unless the United States takes the lead.

"I therefore propose the Bank of Nations. I would give the United States the controlling interest in it. I would have $1,300,000,000 of its stock taken over by the United States and $200,000,000 more sold to American banks and bankers, exporters and importers interested in foreign commerce, and the remaining $900,000,000 sold to foreign governments.

"The Bank of Nations would be large enough and powerful enough to put an end to the pirated speculation which has been going on in international exchange and which has made commerce next to impossible. It would also be powerful enough to establish a legitimate international credit to promote commerce between the nations, particularly with respect to great exportable surplus products of the United States to Europe.

Would Issue Own Notes

"To give the bank power to be used in discounting bills of exchange, buying and selling Government securities, including Treasury certificates and making loans to exporters, and importers, I would empower it to issue its own banknotes or currency protected by an adequate reserve of gold and Government bonds.

"This power to issue currency would develop an enormous possibility of credit and I believe this currency which would be on a gold basis would soon be in strong demand for use in other countries and ofr international shipment. In other words, the great store of gold in the United States—one-half of all the gold available in the entire world—would not be diminished, but would remain largely here while the currency of the bank would be used to facilitate international commerce.

"Other nations are struggling desperately to keep enough gold within their borders to make a respectable cover for their currency. The Bank of Nations would make it possible to use this gold as a basis for an international currency which could be used in international commerce and for its facilitation.

"We have in this country abundant credit facilities, but international commerce practically has none. The bank I propose would create a system of international credit and would be able to extend this credit over a year's time, so that the raw materials purchased from the United States could be made into the finished product and sent to the markets before the maturity of the paper which was created at the time the products were exported."

Produce Letter

Butter production is showing a slight decrease. A lighter accumulation in storage and constantly increasing demand for current use have resulted in advanced prices in producing centers.

Liberal receipts of poultry have arrived during the week and this is reflected in lower prices on Eastern markets.

There has been a fair clearance of recent accumulations of fresh eggs. There is a better inquiry for good stock and prices are quoted a little higher, although the quality is not generally satisfactory. Greater care of eggs on the farm and more frequent marketing will probably result in producers realizing better values.
